2. Presentation and discussion of plans for the next participation Day in Budapest , October 2017:

- Following the first information at the last meeting of D-LAP in May 2016, the proposal to hold the next participation day in Budapest at the EUSDR-Annual Forum at and with the Andrassy University was met with approval; Accordingly, the organization was transferred officially at the end of the Participation Day 2016 from Slovakia (Plenipotentiary Martin Giertl) to Hungary (Andrassy University).

Mr. Barabas from Hungary informed that the Hungarian government was thinking about holding a participation day a few months before the Annual Forum so that the results could be better implemented in the Forum. The D-LAP advisory committee has worked in the last years towards a growingly stronger integration of the Participation Day in the Annual Forum, which was also approved by DG Regio (the participation Day becoming an official side-event on the EC Website), and will continue to do so.

He also proposed to think about a new format for the PD in order to “refresh” it, mentioning that there were not enough Slovak speakers at the 3rd DPD and proposing a more bottom up approach. The organisers however noted that there were 35 NGOs from Slovakia present, as well as the Plenipotentiary of the Slovak government for Civil Society Martin Giertl, presentations of Slovak projects in the Workshops and the Workshop “OGP- Open Government Partnership” organized by the office of the Plenipotentiary at the Participation Day in Bratislava.

Mr. Barabas proposed to work on how to create a Danube identity, which was met with approval by the DLAP, proposals for projects/activities are welcome.

He also proposed to have more regular exchange about developments concerning Civil Society between the Participation Days and asked for a report of the PD to the D-LAP, which was agreed upon by PA 10.

3. Report on new developments in EUSDR and PA 10 concerning Civil Society and local actors- next steps for D-LAP:

- The Local Actors meeting on the 3rd of November on the premises of the Annual Forum together with Council of Danube Cities and Regions, Arge Donauländer, Danube Civil Society Forum and D-LAP is a new and innovative step towards participation of local actors in the governance of the Danube Region. At the last Annual Forum in Ulm 2015, the local actors- D-LAP, CoDCR and Arge Donauländer for the first time presented and distributed a common resolution about the role and challenges as well as needs of the local actors confronted with the European refugee crisis. 2016, the session will be dedicated to the building up of participative democracy and cooperation between regions, cities and the civil society in order to foster sustainable macro regional development , stability and growth.

Together, the central stakeholders of the Danube Strategy-and in general of social and economic sustainable development and innovation - should push for an adequate financing through national and EU-funds in the upcoming discussion on the new framework for cohesion policy.

Building upon the results, PA 10-D-LAP drafted an addendum to the Eisenstadt declaration, which we propose to endorse together with the Council of Cities and Regions (Annex 4)

- First Call of the Danube Programme DTTP

Urschitz reports on difficult situation, many projects were rejected, especially in the 4th pillar, only 10 as far as possible to say at this stage from Civil Society and local actors were accepted in the 2. stage of the first call. Many projects failed outright due to a lack of consideration of specific Danube Transnational Programme (DTP) technicalities. Civil Society involvement was indirectly tackled only in few projects, as well as innovative governance models. The 2. DTP call will be a one-step procedure, involving Eni funds for Ukraine and Rep. of Moldova. However, pillar 4.1, where Cities and civil Society as well as qualification could be founded, will be closed. (Annex 5)

- PA 10 will launch a new pilot project, “Danube Strategic Project Fund” in 2017, more informations can be found on PA10 website. (Annex 6)

- Urschitz reported on the EuroAccess website, which facilitates the search for funding possibilities and project partners <https://www.danube-euroaccess.eu/>.

- Roman Haken from the EESC reports on the connected topics, discussed in the Committee. Partnership in strategy making and participation of the citizens is highlighted in many opinions – EU Urban Agenda, Community Led Local Development, EU Forum for Sustainable Development. Important principles are declared in the EC document – Code of Conduct on Partnership. He points out the importance of the engagement of local authorities, national representatives in the activities and events of civil society. He missed most of the members of PA10 steering group at the Participation Day, because this is the event, in which the government administration can hear about the tools and expectations from the other sectors of society, and thanked those who were there.
